○ Weekly Summary (Short summary about what you did this week)

Last week after we figured out our team, we received an email from our client that he would be gone from Friday until late in September. We decided that we should meet with him as soon as possible so that we have a clear path for the next few weeks without being able to meet again. We figured out the main deliverables of the speaker system, and how the idea was inspired. This week we will be working on finding the best technologies for completing our project. Nick has said he will contact Tuttle about possible being an advisor for us.
